THE GRAND EXCHANGE

WELCOME TO A LANDMARK DESTINATION

Bracknell is a prime investment hotspot, located in the London commuter belt and at the heart of Silicon Valley in the UK, it's an emerging market that is attracting world-class commercial occupiers and using that momentum to generate huge tenant demand, all while executing a long-term vision focused around growth and regeneration.

Originally built for 25,000 residents, Bracknell is now home to a population of over 120,000, a number set to grow by 15% to 139,000 by 2036.¹ With property prices currently sitting at £387,118, Bracknell has seen price growth of nearly 249% over the last 20 years, a figure that continues to rise alongside demand.²

A major catalyst for this rapid expansion is the £770 million regeneration project Bracknell is undergoing, rejuvenating residential, commercial and retail spaces throughout the region. The regeneration plans extend to 2032 and will promote true urban living while adding vibrancy to the area, demonstrated by nearly 630,000 sq.ft of office space experiencing residential conversion during the planned regeneration.³

The jewel in the crown of Bracknell's transformation is The Lexicon. Designed in conjunction with multi-award winning architects Chapman Taylor, this iconic development highlights the potential within this elegant and understated town.

The Lexicon has transformed the centre into a vibrant retail and leisure destination as part of a £240 million joint venture project between Legal & General Capital and Schroder UK Real Estate. Over 1 million sq.ft of high-end retail space has been created which boasts retailers such as Fenwick, Waitrose, Joules, L'Occitane and Marks & Spencer while featuring celebratory public realm spaces, arched glass vaulted walkways and festival plazas.

According to Antony Gibson from Romans, a leading Berkshire estate agent:

"A huge contributing factor to the increase in house prices is the recent regeneration of Bracknell town centre, leading to better facilities and more employment opportunities."

"It seems that buyers are realising now is an excellent time to move, whether they are first-time buyers, investors or current homeowners."
